From the President

I WANT TO THANK all of the CCME membership for the opportunity to serve as president this next year. There is no organization that I value more than CCME. Thanks to the quality and commitment of our membership, our organization has become recognized as the annual forum for interaction and discussion of the most current and innovative issues associated with the delivery and services of our most important product, education, to our most important customer, the service member.

CCME's mission of providing and delivering educational opportunities for the service member is certainly daunting with the accelerated transformation to a mobile and agile military, the associated reorganization in Europe and the Pacific, and the recent BRAC announcement. Now, more than ever, we are challenged to think of new ways to provide the service member with expanded educational opportunities, while simultaneously dealing with impending funding concerns, reduction of personnel and the myriad issues associated with military recruiting and retention. During this time of transition and transformation, CCME's role is increasingly more important and will continue to have an even more significant, meaningful and purposeful impact on military voluntary education.

Your CCME Board is committed to providing for the Symposium a contemporary and innovative "best practices" environment in which to interact, discuss and network. Since DoD Worldwide is scheduled for July 2006, we have worked diligently to provide a Symposium location that is conducive to travel budgets. I am pleased to confirm that this year's Symposium will be held in Reno, Nevada, at the Nugget Hotel, January 30-February 2, 2006. The management of the Nugget, a world-class facility, has graciously agreed to accommodate a hotel rate for the CCME Symposium that is especially reasonable. On behalf of the board, I invite all of you to join us in January to continue our tradition of "together we can make a difference."

|| MILITARY VOLUNTARY EDUCATION:
"SURE BET... OR FUTURE GAMBLE?" ||

THE 2005 SYMPOSIUM IN NEW ORLEANS launched the institutional and military breakout sessions as an opportunity for the membership to discuss concerns, issues and topics that are critical and vital to Military Voluntary Education. Many excellent ideas came out of the sessions. As a direct result, the board is very pleased to provide an expanded discussion and dialogue on the topic of accreditation and transfer of credits in Reno at the 2006 Symposium in January. In addition, you can look forward to expanded concurrent sessions, military representative presentations, service chief panels, VA updates and an ACME President's panel. A complete list of expressed issues and concerns can be found on the CCME Web site at ccmeonline.org.

Reflections of Our New Orleans Symposium

"Serving the Service Member - In Search of Excellence" - in New Orleans no less!

IT MAKES ONE PONDER just how the collective "we, the members of CCME" could have possibly worked so hard, learned so much, brought to the table so much, in the atmosphere of Mardi Gras. The success of the 2005 CCME Symposium will only continue to shine because it is a testament to how serious and dedicated we all are about our responsibilities to the service members and their families—regardless of venue. We all have a mission and a responsibility to insure they get the best opportunity for quality education; and being in New Orleans was no exception. With our showing of over 500 attendees, it speaks for itself.

The overarching issues at the symposium addressed the importance of ACME's, new and ever evolving technology in the delivery of education, updates (albeit sometimes grim) from DoD and institutions, integrity of degrees, quality distance education, new breakout sessions to identify military and institutional issues for future symposia, inspirational addresses, and the oh so necessary networking.

The CCME Board was very pleased to receive the overall positive responses to the surveys and hear so many great ideas for the future.

"Don't apologize for choosing an interesting location at an interesting time."

"A big Thank You! To all who did the hard work to make this happen."

"Great job, thanks!"

"Fabulous food!"

(don't we know when we returned with a few extra pounds)

Despite our efforts we are aware that the logistics, in a few cases, posed some problems; and we thank you for your patience. We also want to thank each and every one of you who took the time to fill out surveys. As you know, they are very helpful for the Board in putting together future symposia.
